

London, November 12 to 13/2010

What a year it has been! Since last year's World MoneyShow, we've seen surging unemployment and a precipitous drop in both property prices and global financial markets, making even the most successful investors and traders flee to safe, income producing investments. In times like these, it's critical to have a venue to hear and learn from the best financial minds in the world. The World MoneyShow is the only place you'll meet, hear from, and find out how to profit from leading experts. That's why we hope you'll attend the conference, free, as our guest!